Foreign Work Group To Tour Climax Plants

CPYRGHT

CLIMAX — A score of top echelon government officials from the state department's Foreign Service Institute will make a three-day tour of Climax Molybdenum's mining and milling complex April 8-10, Frank Coolbaugh, Climax president, announced this week.

Invited to accompany the group will be a bevy of distinguished Coloradans headed by Sen. Gordon Allott, Rep. Wayne Aspinall, and Gov. Steve McNichols.

The Foreign Service Institute provides specialized training and instruction to officers and employees of the state department as well as other top-grade government officials from other executive departments.

During the three days the visitors will get a complete briefing on molybdenum from underground operations through milling and on to long range planning being done at the 2-mile-high site.

Members of the institute making the tour will be: From the state department; Charles P. O'Donnell, John P. Hoover, James N. Cortada, Eileen R. Donovan, Robert B. Elwood, Nicholas Feld, Douglas Henderson, Edmund H. Kellogg, Roswell D. McClelland, Robinson McIlvaine, Brewer J. Merriam, Ernest Victor Siracusa, and Herbert Daniel Spivack.

Other officials will be Douglas M. Crawford, Foreign Agricultural Service, Allan A. Crockett, air force, William J. Massocco, International Cooperation Administration, William S. McCrea, army, William E. Nelson, Central Intelligence Agency, Daniel C. Pollock, marine corps, and John J. Slocum, U.S. Information Agency.

The party will spend one day at the U.S. Air Force Academy prior to going to Climax.
